Our greatest concern is the well being of your pet. We will perform a physical examination before administering anesthesia and EKG heart monitoring will be performed. IV fluids will be given during surgery to help maintain blood pressure and allow rapid drug administration should an emergency situation develop. Recovery is faster and better in the animals that are kept pain-free. A pre-op pain injection and pain medication will be administered according to your pet's needs. Please consider the following procedures to increase the safety and comfort of your pet today and during the recovery period.
